(3) A trade mark shall not be registered if, or to the extent that, its use in India is liable to be prevented—

(a) by virtue of any law in particular the law of passing off protecting an unregistered trade mark used in the course of trade; or

Explanation.—For the purposes of this section, earlier trade mark means—

¹[(a) a registered trade mark or an application under section 18 bearing an earlier date of filing or an international registration referred to in section 36E or convention application referred to in section 154 which has a date of application earlier than that of the trade mark in question, taking account, where appropriate, of the priorities claimed in respect of the trade marks;]

(b) a trade mark which, on the date of the application for registration of the trade mark in question, or where appropriate, of the priority claimed in respect of the application, was entitled to protection as a well-known trade mark.

(5) A trade mark shall not be refused registration on the grounds specified in sub-sections (2) and (3), unless objection on any one or more of those grounds is raised in opposition proceedings by the proprietor of the earlier trade mark.

(6) The Registrar shall, while determining whether a trade mark is a well-known trade mark, take into account any fact which he considers relevant for determining a trade mark as a well-known trade mark including—

(i) the knowledge or recognition of that trade mark in the relevant section of the public including knowledge in India obtained as a result of promotion of the trade mark;

(ii) the duration, extent and geographical area of any use of that trade mark;

(iii) the duration, extent and geographical area of any promotion of the trade mark, including advertising or publicity and presentation, at fairs or exhibition of the goods or services to which the trade mark applies;

(iv) the duration and geographical area of any registration of or any application for registration of that trade mark under this Act to the extent that they reflect the use or recognition of the trade mark;

(v) the record of successful enforcement of the rights in that trade mark, in particular the extent to which the trade mark has been recognised as a well-known trade mark by any court or Registrar under that record.

(7) The Registrar shall, while determining as to whether a trade mark is known or recognised in a relevant section of the public for the purposes of sub-section (6), take into account—

(i) the number of actual or potential consumers of the goods or services;

(ii) the number of persons involved in the channels of distribution of the goods or services;

1. Subs. by Act 40 of 2010, s. 2, for clause (a) (w.e.f. 8-7-2013).

(iii) the business circles dealing with the goods or services,
to which that trade mark applies.

(8) Where a trade mark has been determined to be well known in at least one relevant section of the public in India by any court or Registrar, the Registrar shall consider that trade mark as a well-known trade mark for registration under this Act.

(9) The Registrar shall not require as a condition, for determining whether a trade mark is a well-known trade mark, any of the following, namely:—

- (i) that the trade mark has been used in India;
- (ii) that the trade mark has been registered;
- (iii) that the application for registration of the trade mark has been filed in India;
- (iv) that the trade mark—
 - (a) is well-known in; or
 - (b) has been registered in; or
 - (c) in respect of which an application for registration has been filed in, any jurisdiction other than India, or

- (v) that the trade mark is well-known to the public at large in India.

(10) While considering an application for registration of a trade mark and opposition filed in respect thereof, the Registrar shall—

- (i) protect a well-known trade mark against the identical or similar trade marks;
- (ii) take into consideration the bad faith involved either of the applicant or the opponent affecting the right relating to the trade mark.

(11) Where a trade mark has been registered in good faith disclosing the material informations to the Registrar or where right to a trade mark has been acquired through use in good faith before the commencement of this Act, then, nothing in this Act shall prejudice the validity of the registration of that trade mark or right to use that trade mark on the ground that such trade mark is identical with or similar to a well-known trade mark.

12. Registration in the case of honest concurrent use, etc.—In the case of honest concurrent use or of other special circumstances which in the opinion of the Registrar, make it proper so to do, he may permit the registration by more than one proprietor of the trade marks which are identical or similar (whether any such trade mark is already registered or not) in respect of the same or similar goods or services, subject to such conditions and limitations, if any, as the Registrar may think fit to impose.

13. Prohibition of registration of names of chemical elements or international non-proprietary names.—No word—

- (a) which is the commonly used and accepted name of any single chemical element or any single chemical compound (as distinguished from a mixture) in respect of a chemical substance or preparation, or
- (b) which is declared by the World Health Organisation and notified in the prescribed manner by the Registrar from time to time, as an international non-proprietary name or which is deceptively similar to such name, shall be registered as a trade mark and any such registration shall be deemed for the purpose of section 57 to be an entry made in the register without sufficient cause or an entry wrongly remaining on the register, as the circumstances may require.

14. Use of names and representations of living persons or persons recently dead.—Where an application is made for the registration of a trade mark which falsely suggests a connection with any living person, or a person whose death took place within twenty years prior to the date of application for registration of the trade mark, the Registrar may, before he proceeds with the application, require the applicant to furnish him with the consent in writing of such living person or, as the case may be, of the legal representative of the deceased person to the connection appearing on the trade mark, and may refuse to proceed with the application unless the applicant furnishes the Registrar with such consent.

15. Registration of parts of trade marks and of trade marks as a series.—(1) Where the proprietor of a trade mark claims to be entitled to the exclusive use of any part thereof separately, he may apply to register the whole and the part as separate trade marks.

(2) Each such separate trade mark shall satisfy all the conditions applying to and have all the incidents of, an independent trade mark.

(3) Where a person claiming to be the proprietor of several trade marks in respect of the same or similar goods or services or description of goods or description of services, which, while resembling each other in the material particulars thereof, yet differ in respect of—

- (a) statement of the goods or services in relation to which they are respectively used or proposed to be used; or
- (b) statement of number, price, quality or names of places; or
- (c) other matter of a non-distinctive character which does not substantially affect the identity of the trade mark; or seeks to register those trade marks, they may be registered as a series in one registration.
- (d) colour,

16. Registration of trade marks as associated trade marks.—(1) Where a trade mark which is registered, or is the subject of an application for registration, in respect of any goods or services is identical with another trade mark which is registered, or is the subject of an application for registration, in the name of the same proprietor in respect of the same goods or description of goods or same services or description of services or so nearly resembles it as to be likely to deceive or cause confusion if used by a person other than the proprietor, the Registrar may, at any time, require that the trade marks shall be entered on the register as associated trade marks.

(2) Where there is an identity or near resemblance of marks that are registered, or are the subject of applications for registration in the name of the same proprietor, in respect of goods and services which are associated with those goods or services, or goods or services of that description, sub-section (1) shall apply as it applies as where there is an identity or near resemblance of marks that are registered, or are the subject of applications for registration, in the name of the same proprietor in respect of the same goods or description of goods or same services or description of services.

(3) Where a trade mark and any part thereof are, in accordance with the provisions of sub-section (1) of section 15, registered as separate trade marks in the name of the same proprietor, they shall be deemed to be, and shall be registered as, associated trade marks.

(4) All trade marks registered in accordance with the provisions of sub-section (3) of section 15 as a series in one registration shall be deemed to be, and shall be registered as, associated trade marks.

(5) On application made in the prescribed manner by the registered proprietor of two or more trade marks registered as associated trade marks, the Registrar may dissolve the association as respects any of them if he is satisfied that there would be no likelihood of deception or confusion being caused if that trade mark were used by any other person in relation to any of the goods or services or both in respect of which it is registered, and may amend the register accordingly.

17. Effect of registration of parts of a mark.—(1) When a trade mark consists of several matters, its registration shall confer on the proprietor exclusive right to the use of the trade mark taken as a whole.

(2) Notwithstanding anything contained in sub-section (1), when a trade mark—

- (a) contains any part—
 - (i) which is not the subject of a separate application by the proprietor for registration as a trade mark; or

- (ii) which is not separately registered by the proprietor as a trade mark; or
 - (b) contains any matter which is common to the trade or is otherwise of a non-distinctive character,
- the registration thereof shall not confer any exclusive right in the matter forming only a part of the whole of the trade mark so registered.

CHAPTER III

PROCEDURE FOR AND DURATION OF REGISTRATION

18. Application for registration.—(1) Any person claiming to be the proprietor of a trade mark used or proposed to be used by him, who is desirous of registering it, shall apply in writing to the Registrar in the prescribed manner for the registration of his trade mark.

(2) A single application may be made for registration of a trade mark for different classes of goods and services and fee payable therefor shall be in respect of each such class of goods or services.

(3) Every application under sub-section (1) shall be filed in the office of the Trade Marks Registry within whose territorial limits the principal place of business in India of the applicant or in the case of joint applicants the principal place of business in India of the applicant whose name is first mentioned in the application as having a place of business in India, is situate:

Provided that where the applicant or any of the joint applicants does not carry on business in India, the application shall be filed in the office of the Trade Marks Registry within whose territorial limits the place mentioned in the address for service in India as disclosed in the application, is situate.

(4) Subject to the provisions of this Act, the Registrar may refuse the application or may accept it absolutely or subject to such amendments, modifications, conditions or limitations, if any, as he may think fit.

(5) In the case of a refusal or conditional acceptance of an application, the Registrar shall record in writing the grounds for such refusal or conditional acceptance and the materials used by him in arriving at his decision.

19. Withdrawal of acceptance.—Where, after the acceptance of an application for registration of a trade mark but before its registration, the Registrar is satisfied—

(a) that the application has been accepted in error; or

(b) that in the circumstances of the case the trade mark should not be registered or should be registered subject to conditions or limitations or to conditions additional to or different from the conditions or limitations subject to which the application has been accepted, the Registrar may, after hearing the applicant if he so desires, withdraw the acceptance and proceed as if the application had not been accepted.

20. Advertisement of application.—(1) When an application for registration of a trade mark has been accepted, whether absolutely or subject to conditions or limitations, the Registrar shall, as soon as may be after acceptance, cause the application as accepted together with the conditions or limitations, if any, subject to which it has been accepted, to be advertised in the prescribed manner:

Provided that the Registrar may cause the application to be advertised before acceptance if it relates to a trade mark to which sub-section (1) of section 9 and sub-sections (1) and (2) of section 11 apply, or in any other case where it appears to him that it is expedient by reason of any exceptional circumstances so to do.

(2) Where—

(a) an application has been advertised before acceptance under sub-section (1); or

(b) after advertisement of an application,—

(i) an error in the application has been corrected; or

(ii) the application has been permitted to be amended under section 22,

the Registrar may in his discretion cause the application to be advertised again or in any case falling under clause (b) may, instead of causing the application to be advertised again, notify in the prescribed manner the correction or amendment made in the application.

21. Opposition to registration.—¹[(1) Any person may, within four months from the date of the advertisement or re-advertisement of an application for registration, give notice in writing in the prescribed manner and on payment of such fee as may be prescribed, to the Registrar, of opposition to the registration.]

(2) The Registrar shall serve a copy of the notice on the applicant for registration and, within two months from the receipt by the applicant of such copy of the notice of opposition, the applicant shall send to the Registrar in the prescribed manner a counterstatement of the grounds on which he relies for his application, and if he does not do so he shall be deemed to have abandoned his application.

(3) If the applicant sends such counter-statement, the Registrar shall serve a copy thereof on the person giving notice of opposition.

(4) Any evidence upon which the opponent and the applicant may rely shall be submitted in the prescribed manner and within the prescribed time to the Registrar, and the Registrar shall give an opportunity to them to be heard, if they so desire.

(5) The Registrar shall, after hearing the parties, if so required, and considering the evidence, decide whether and subject to what conditions or limitations, if any, the registration is to be permitted, and may take into account a ground of objection whether relied upon by the opponent or not.

(6) Where a person giving notice of opposition or an applicant sending a counter-statement after receipt of a copy of such notice neither resides nor carries on business in India, the Registrar may require him to give security for the costs of proceedings before him, and in default of such security being duly given, may treat the opposition or application, as the case may be, as abandoned.

(7) The Registrar may, on request, permit correction of any error in, or any amendment of, a notice of opposition or a counter-statement on such terms as he thinks just.

22. Correction and amendment.—The Registrar may, on such terms as he thinks just, at any time, whether before or after acceptance of an application for registration under section 18, permit the correction of any error in or in connection with the application or permit an amendment of the application:

Provided that if an amendment is made to a single application referred to in sub-section (2) of section 18 involving division of such application into two or more applications, the date of making of the initial application shall be deemed to be the date of making of the divided applications so divided.

23. Registration.—(1) Subject to the provisions of section 19, when an application for registration of a trade mark has been accepted and either—

(a) the application has not been opposed and the time for notice of opposition has expired; or

(b) the application has been opposed and the opposition has been decided in favour of the applicant,

the Registrar shall, unless the Central Government otherwise directs, register the said trade mark ²[within eighteen months of the filing of the application] and the trade mark when registered shall be registered as of the date of the making of the said application and that date shall, subject to the provisions of section 154, be deemed to be the date of registration.

(2) On the registration of a trade mark, the Registrar shall issue to the applicant a certificate in the prescribed form of the registration thereof, sealed with the seal of the Trade Marks Registry.

1. Subs. by Act 40 of 2010, s. 3, for sub-section (1) (w.e.f. 8-7-2013).

2. Ins. by s. 4, ibid. (w.e.f. 8-7-2013).

(3) Where registration of a trade mark is not completed within twelve months from the date of the application by reason of default on the part of the applicant, the Registrar may, after giving notice to the applicant in the prescribed manner, treat the application as abandoned unless it is completed within the time specified in that behalf in the notice.

(4) The Registrar may amend the register or a certificate of registration for the purpose of correcting a clerical error or an obvious mistake.

24. Jointly owned trade marks.—(1) Save as provided in sub-section (2), nothing in this Act shall authorise the registration of two or more persons who use a trade mark independently, or propose so as to use it, as joint proprietors thereof.

(2) Where the relations between two or more persons interested in a trade mark are such that no one of them is entitled as between himself and the other or others of them to use it except—

(a) on behalf of both or all of them; or\

(b) in relation to an article or service with which both or all of them are connected in the course of trade, those persons may be registered as joint proprietors of the trade mark, and this Act shall have effect in relation to any rights to the use of the trade mark vested in those persons as if those rights had been vested in a single person.

25. Duration, renewal, removal and restoration of registration.—(1) The registration of a trade mark, after the commencement of this Act, shall be for a period of ten years, but may be renewed from time to time in accordance with the provisions of this section.

(2) The Registrar shall, on application made by the registered proprietor of a trade mark in the prescribed manner and within the prescribed period and subject to payment of the prescribed fee, renew the registration of the trade mark for a period of ten years from the date of expiration of the original registration or of the last renewal of registration, as the case may be (which date is in this section referred to as the expiration of the last registration).

(3) At the prescribed time before the expiration of the last registration of a trade mark the Registrar shall send notice in the prescribed manner to the registered proprietor of the date of expiration and the conditions as to payment of fees and otherwise upon which a renewal of registration may be obtained, and, if at the expiration of the time prescribed in that behalf those conditions have not been duly complied with the Registrar may remove the trade mark from the register:

Provided that the Registrar shall not remove the trade mark from the register if an application is made in the prescribed form and the prescribed fee and surcharge is paid within six months from the expiration of the last registration of the trade mark and shall renew the registration of the trade mark for a period of ten years under sub-section (2).

(4) Where a trade mark has been removed from the register for non-payment of the prescribed fee, the Registrar shall, after six months and within one year from the expiration of the last registration of the trade mark, on receipt of an application in the prescribed form and on payment of the prescribed fee, if satisfied that it is just so to do, restore the trade mark to the register and renew the registration of the trade mark either generally or subject to such conditions or limitations as he thinks fit to impose, for a period of ten years from the expiration of the last registration.

26. Effect of removal from register for failure to pay fee for renewal.—Where a trade mark has been removed from the register for failure to pay the fee for renewal, it shall nevertheless, for the purpose of any application for the registration of another trade mark during one year, next after the date of the removal, be deemed to be a trade mark already on the register, unless the tribunal is satisfied either—

(a) that there has been no bona fide trade use of the trade mark which has been removed during the two years immediately preceding its removal; or

(b) that no deception or confusion would be likely to arise from the use of the trade mark which is the subject of the application for registration by reason of any previous use of the trade mark which has been removed.

CHAPTER IV

EFFECT OF REGISTRATION

27. No action for infringement of unregistered trade mark.—(1) No person shall be entitled to institute any proceeding to prevent, or to recover damages for, the infringement of an unregistered trade mark.

(2) Nothing in this Act shall be deemed to affect rights of action against any person for passing off goods or services as the goods of another person or as services provided by another person, or the remedies in respect thereof.

28. Rights conferred by registration.—(1) Subject to the other provisions of this Act, the registration of a trade mark shall, if valid, give to the registered proprietor of the trade mark the exclusive right to the use of the trade mark in relation to the goods or services in respect of which the trade mark is registered and to obtain relief in respect of infringement of the trade mark in the manner provided by this Act.

(2) The exclusive right to the use of a trade mark given under sub-section (1) shall be subject to any conditions and limitations to which the registration is subject.

(3) Where two or more persons are registered proprietors of trade marks, which are identical with or nearly resemble each other, the exclusive right to the use of any of those trade marks shall not (except so far as their respective rights are subject to any conditions or limitations entered on the register) be deemed to have been acquired by any one of those persons as against any other of those persons merely by registration of the trade marks but each of those persons has otherwise the same rights as against other persons (not being registered users using by way of permitted use) as he would have if he were the sole registered proprietor.

29. Infringement of registered trade marks.—(1) A registered trade mark is infringed by a person who, not being a registered proprietor or a person using by way of permitted use, uses in the course of trade, a mark which is identical with, or deceptively similar to, the trade mark in relation to goods or services in respect of which the trade mark is registered and in such manner as to render the use of the mark likely to be taken as being used as a trade mark.

(2) A registered trade mark is infringed by a person who, not being a registered proprietor or a person using by way of permitted use, uses in the course of trade, a mark which because of—

(a) its identity with the registered trade mark and the similarity of the goods or services covered by such registered trade mark; or

(b) its similarity to the registered trade mark and the identity or similarity of the goods or services covered by such registered trade mark; or

(c) its identity with the registered trade mark and the identity of the goods or services covered by such registered trade mark, is likely to cause confusion on the part of the public, or which is likely to have an association with the registered trade mark.

(3) In any case falling under clause (c) of sub-section (2), the court shall presume that it is likely to cause confusion on the part of the public.

(4) A registered trade mark is infringed by a person who, not being a registered proprietor or a person using by way of permitted use, uses in the course of trade, a mark which—

(a) is identical with or similar to the registered trade mark; and

(b) is used in relation to goods or services which are not similar to those for which the trade mark is registered; and

(c) the registered trade mark has a reputation in India and the use of the mark without due cause takes unfair advantage of or is detrimental to, the distinctive character or repute of the registered trade mark.

(5) A registered trade mark is infringed by a person if he uses such registered trade mark, as his trade name or part of his trade name, or name of his business concern or part of the name, of his business concern dealing in goods or services in respect of which the trade mark is registered.

(6) For the purposes of this section, a person uses a registered mark, if, in particular, he—

- (a) affixes it to goods or the packaging thereof;
- (b) offers or exposes goods for sale, puts them on the market, or stocks them for those purposes under the registered trade mark, or offers or supplies services under the registered trade mark;
- (c) imports or exports goods under the mark; or
- (d) uses the registered trade mark on business papers or in advertising.

(7) A registered trade mark is infringed by a person who applies such registered trade mark to a material intended to be used for labeling or packaging goods, as a business paper, or for advertising goods or services, provided such person, when he applied the mark, knew or had reason to believe that the application of the mark was not duly authorised by the proprietor or a licensee.

(8) A registered trade mark is infringed by any advertising of that trade mark if such advertising—

- (a) takes unfair advantage of and is contrary to honest practices in industrial or commercial matters; or
- (b) is detrimental to its distinctive character; or
- (c) is against the reputation of the trade mark.

(9) Where the distinctive elements of a registered trade mark consist of or include words, the trade mark may be infringed by the spoken use of those words as well as by their visual representation and reference in this section to the use of a mark shall be construed accordingly.

30. Limits on effect of registered trade mark.—(1) Nothing in section 29 shall be construed as preventing the use of a registered trade mark by any person for the purposes of identifying goods or services as those of the proprietor provided the use—

- (a) is in accordance with honest practices in industrial or commercial matters, and
- (b) is not such as to take unfair advantage of or be detrimental to the distinctive character or repute of the trade mark.

(2) A registered trade mark is not infringed where—

(a) the use in relation to goods or services indicates the kind, quality, quantity, intended purpose, value, geographical origin, the time of production of goods or of rendering of services or other characteristics of goods or services;

(b) a trade mark is registered subject to any conditions or limitations, the use of the trade mark in any manner in relation to goods to be sold or otherwise traded in, in any place, or in relation to goods to be exported to any market or in relation to services for use or available for acceptance in any place or country outside India or in any other circumstances, to which, having regard to those conditions or limitations, the registration does not extend;

(c) the use by a person of a trade mark—

(i) in relation to goods connected in the course of trade with the proprietor or a registered user of the trade mark if, as to those goods or a bulk of which they form part, the registered proprietor or the registered user conforming to the permitted use has applied the trade mark and has not subsequently removed or obliterated it, or has at any time expressly or impliedly consented to the use of the trade mark; or

(ii) in relation to services to which the proprietor of such mark or of a registered user conforming to the permitted use has applied the mark, where the purpose and effect of the use of the mark is to indicate, in accordance with the fact, that those services have been performed by the proprietor or a registered user of the mark;

(d) the use of a trade mark by a person in relation to goods adapted to form part of, or to be accessory to, other goods or services in relation to which the trade mark has been used without infringement of the right given by registration under this Act or might for the time being be so used, if the use of the trade mark is reasonably necessary in order to indicate that the goods or services are so adapted, and neither the purpose nor the effect of the use of the trade mark is to indicate, otherwise than in accordance with the fact, a connection in the course of trade between any person and the goods or services, as the case may be;

(e) the use of a registered trade mark, being one of two or more trade marks registered under this Act which are identical or nearly resemble each other, in exercise of the right to the use of that trade mark given by registration under this Act.

(3) Where the goods bearing a registered trade mark are lawfully acquired by a person, the sale of the goods in the market or otherwise dealing in those goods by that person or by a person claiming under or through him is not infringement of a trade mark by reason only of—

(a) the registered trade mark having been assigned by the registered proprietor to some other person, after the acquisition of those goods; or

(b) the goods having been put on the market under the registered trade mark by the proprietor or with his consent.

(4) Sub-section (3) shall not apply where there exists legitimate reasons for the proprietor to oppose further dealings in the goods in particular, where the condition of the goods, has been changed or impaired after they have been put on the market.

31. Registration to be prima facie evidence of validity.—(1) In all legal proceedings relating to a trade mark registered under this Act (including applications under section 57), the original registration of the trade mark and of all subsequent assignments and transmissions of the trade mark shall be prima facie evidence of the validity thereof.

(2) In all legal proceedings as aforesaid a registered trade mark shall not be held to be invalid on the ground that it was not a registrable trade mark under section 9 except upon evidence of distinctiveness and that such evidence was not submitted to the Registrar before registration, if it is proved that the trade mark had been so used by the registered proprietor or his predecessor in title as to have become distinctive at the date of registration.

32. Protection of registration on ground of distinctiveness in certain cases.—Where a trade mark is registered in breach of sub-section (1) of section 9, it shall not be declared invalid if, in consequence of the use which has been made of it, it has after registration and before commencement of any legal proceedings challenging the validity of such registration, acquired a distinctive character in relation to the goods or services for which it is registered.

33. Effect of acquiescence.—(1) Where the proprietor of an earlier trade mark has acquiesced for a continuous period of five years in the use of a registered trade mark, being aware of that use, he shall no longer be entitled on the basis of that earlier trade mark—

(a) to apply for a declaration that the registration of the later trade mark is invalid, or

(b) to oppose the use of the later trade mark in relation to the goods or services in relation to which it has been so used, unless the registration of the later trade mark was not applied in good faith.

(2) Where sub-section (1) applies, the proprietor of the later trade mark is not entitled to oppose the use of the earlier trade mark, or as the case may be, the exploitation of the earlier right, notwithstanding that the earlier trade mark may no longer be invoked against his later trade mark.

34. Saving for vested rights.—Nothing in this Act shall entitle the proprietor or a registered user of registered trade mark to interfere with or restrain the use by any person of a trade mark identical with or nearly resembling it in relation to goods or services in relation to which that person or a predecessor in title of his has continuously used that trade mark from a date prior—

(a) to the use of the first-mentioned trade mark in relation to those goods or services by the proprietor or a predecessor in title of his; or

(b) to the date of registration of the first-mentioned trade mark in respect of those goods or services in the name of the proprietor or a predecessor in title of his;

whichever is the earlier, and the Registrar shall not refuse (on such use being proved) to register the second mentioned trade mark by reason only of the registration of the first-mentioned trade mark.

35. Saving for use of name, address or description of goods or services.—Nothing in this Act shall entitle the proprietor or a registered user of a registered trade mark to interfere with any bona fide use by a person of his own name or that of his place of business, or of the name, or of the name of the place of business, of any of his predecessors in business, or the use by any person of any bona fide description of the character or quality of his goods or services.

36. Saving for words used as name or description of an article or substance or service.—(1) The registration of a trade mark shall not be deemed to have become invalid by reason only of any use after the date of the registration of any word or words which the trade mark contains or of which it consists as the name or description of an article or substance or service:

Provided that, if it is proved either—

(a) that there is a well known and established use of the said word as the name or description of the article or substance or service by a person or persons carrying on trade therein, not being use in relation to goods or services connected in the course of trade with the proprietor or a registered user of the trade mark or (in the case of a certification trade mark) in relation to goods or services certified by the proprietor; or

(b) that the article or substance was formerly manufactured under a patent that a period of two years or more after the cesser of the patent has elapsed and that the said word is the only practicable name or description of the article or substance, the provisions of sub-section (2) shall apply.

(2) Where the facts mentioned in clause (a) or clause (b) of the proviso to sub-section (1) are proved with respect to any words, then,—

(a) for the purposes of any proceedings under section 57 if the trade mark consists solely of such words, the registration of the trade mark, so far as regards registration in respect of the article or substance in question or of any goods of the same description, or of the services or of any services of the same description, as the case requires, shall be deemed to be an entry wrongly remaining on the register;

(b) for the purposes of any other legal proceedings relating to the trade mark,—

(i) if the trade mark consists solely of such words, all rights of the proprietor under this Act or any other law to the use of the trade mark; or

(ii) if the trade mark contains such words and other matter, all such right of the proprietor to the use of such words, in relation to the article or substance or to any goods of the same description, or to the service or to any services of the same description, as the case requires, shall be deemed to have ceased on the date on which the use mentioned in clause (a) of the proviso to sub-section (1) first became well known and established or at the expiration of the period of two years mentioned in clause (b) of the said proviso.

CHAPTER V

ASSIGNMENT AND TRANSMISSION

37. Power of registered proprietor to assign and give receipts.—The person for the time being entered in the register as proprietor of a trade mark shall, subject to the provisions of this Act and to any rights appearing from the register to be vested in any other person, have power to assign the trade mark, and to give effectual receipts for any consideration for such assignment.

38. Assignability and transmissibility of registered trade marks.—Notwithstanding anything in any other law to the contrary, a registered trade mark shall, subject to the provisions of this Chapter, be assignable and transmissible, whether with or without the goodwill of the business concerned and in respect either of all the goods or services in respect of which the trade mark is registered or of some only of those goods or services.

39. Assignability and transmissibility of unregistered trade marks.—An unregistered trade mark may be assigned or transmitted with or without the goodwill of the business concerned.

40. Restriction on assignment or transmission where multiple exclusive rights would be created.—(1) Notwithstanding anything in sections 38 and 39, a trade mark shall not be assignable or transmissible in a case in which as a result of the assignment or transmission there would in the circumstances subsist, whether under this Act or any other law, exclusive rights in more than one of the persons concerned to the use, in relation to—

- (a) same goods or services;
- (b) same description of goods or services;
- (c) goods or services or description of goods or services which are associated with each other,

of trade marks nearly resembling each other or of identical trade mark, if having regard to the similarity of the goods and services and to the similarity of the trade marks, the use of the trade marks in exercise of those rights would be likely to deceive or cause confusion:

Provided that an assignment or transmission shall not be deemed to be invalid under this sub-section if the exclusive rights subsisting as a result thereof in the persons concerned respectively are, having regard to limitations imposed thereon, such as not to be exercisable by two or more of those persons in relation to goods to be sold, or otherwise traded in, within India otherwise than for export therefrom, or in relation to goods to be exported to the same market outside India or in relation to services for use at any place in India or any place outside India in relation to services available for acceptance in India.

(2) The proprietor of a registered trade mark who proposes to assign it may submit to the Registrar in the prescribed manner a statement of case setting out the circumstances and the Registrar may issue to him a certificate stating whether, having regard to the similarity of the goods or services and of the trade marks referred to in the case, the proposed assignment would or would not be invalid under sub-section (1), and a certificate so issued shall, subject to appeal and unless it is shown that the certificate was obtained by fraud or misrepresentation, be conclusive as to the validity or invalidity under sub-section (1) of the assignment in so far as such validity or invalidity depends upon the facts set out in the case, but, as regards a certificate in favour of validity, only if application for the registration under section 45 of the title of the person becoming entitled is made within six months from the date on which the certificate is issued.

41. Restriction on assignment or transmission when exclusive rights would be created in different parts of India.—Notwithstanding anything in sections 38 and 39, a trade mark shall not be assignable or transmissible in a case in which as a result of the assignment or transmission there would in the circumstances subsist, whether under this Act or any other law—

(a) an exclusive right in one of the persons concerned, to the use of the trade mark limited to use in relation to goods to be sold or otherwise traded in, in any place in India, or in relation to services for use, or services available for acceptance in any place in India; and

(b) an exclusive right in another of these persons concerned, to the use of a trade mark nearly resembling the first-mentioned trade mark or of an identical trade mark in relation to—

(i) the same goods or services; or

(ii) the same description of goods or services; or

(iii) services which are associated with those goods or goods of that description or goods which are associated with those services or services of that description, limited to use in relation to goods to be sold or otherwise traded in, or services for use, or available for acceptance, in any other place in India:

Provided that in any such case, on application in the prescribed manner by the proprietor of a trade mark who proposes to assign it, or by a person who claims that a registered trade mark has been transmitted to him or to a predecessor in title of his since the commencement of this Act, the Registrar, if he is satisfied that in all the circumstances the use of the trade mark in exercise of the said rights would not be contrary to the public interest may approve the assignment or transmission, and an assignment or transmission so approved shall not, unless it is shown that the approval was obtained by fraud or misrepresentation, be deemed to be invalid under this section or section 40 if application for the registration under section 45 of the title of the person becoming entitled is made within six months from the date on which the approval is given or, in the case of a transmission, was made before that date.

42. Conditions for assignment otherwise than in connection with the goodwill of a business.—Where an assignment of a trade mark, whether registered or unregistered is made otherwise than in connection with the goodwill of the business in which the mark has been or is used, the assignment shall not take effect unless the assignee, not later than the expiration of six months from the date on which the assignment is made or within such extended period, if any, not exceeding three months in the aggregate, as the Registrar may allow, applies to the Registrar for directions with respect to the advertisement of the assignment, and advertises it in such form and manner and within such period as the Registrar may direct.

Explanation.—For the purposes of this section, an assignment of a trade mark of the following description shall not be deemed to be an assignment made otherwise than in connection with the goodwill of the business in which the mark is used, namely:—

(a) an assignment of a trade mark in respect only of some of the goods or services for which the trade mark is registered accompanied by the transfer of the goodwill of the business concerned in those goods or services only; or

(b) an assignment of a trade mark which is used in relation to goods exported from India or in relation to services for use outside India if the assignment is accompanied by the transfer of the goodwill of the export business only.

43. Assignability and transmissibility of certification trade marks.—A certification trade mark shall not be assignable or transmissible otherwise than with the consent of the Registrar, for which application shall be made in writing in the prescribed manner.

44. Assignability and transmissibility of associated trade marks.—Associated trade marks shall be assignable and transmissible only as a whole and not separately, but, subject to the provisions of this Act, they shall, for all other purposes, be deemed to have been registered as separate trade mark.

¹45. Registration of assignments and transmissions.—(1) Where a person becomes entitled by assignment or transmission to a registered trade mark, he shall apply in the prescribed manner to the Registrar to register his title, and the Registrar shall, on receipt of the application, register him as the proprietor of the trade mark in respect of the goods or services in respect of which the assignment or transmission has effect, and shall cause particulars of such assignment or transmission to be entered on the register.

(2) The Registrar may require the applicant to furnish evidence or further evidence in proof of title only where there is a reasonable doubt about the veracity of any statement or any document furnished.

(3) Where the validity of an assignment or transmission is in dispute between the parties, the Registrar may refuse to register the assignment or transmission until the rights of the parties have been determined by a competent court and in all other cases the Registrar shall dispose of the application within the prescribed period.

(4) Until an application under sub-section (1) has been filed, the assignment or transmission shall be ineffective against a person acquiring a conflicting interest in or under the registered trade mark without the knowledge of assignment or transmission.]

CHAPTER VI

USE OF TRADE MARKS AND REGISTERED USERS

46. Proposed use of trade mark by company to be formed, etc.—(1) No application for the registration of a trade mark in respect of any goods or services shall be refused nor shall permission for such registration be withheld, on the ground only that it appears that the applicant does not use or propose to use the trade mark if the Registrar is satisfied that—

(a) a company is about to be formed and registered under the Companies Act, 1956 (1 of 1956) and that the applicant intends to assign the trade mark to that company with a view to the use thereof in relation to those goods or services by the company, or

(b) the proprietor intends it to be used by a person, as a registered user after the registration of the trade mark.

(2) The provisions of section 47 shall have effect, in relation to a trade mark registered under the powers conferred by this sub-section, as if for the reference, in clause (a) of sub-section (1) of that section, to the intention on the part of an applicant for registration that a trade mark should be used by him there were substituted a reference to the intention on his part that it should be used by the company or registered user concerned.

1. Subs. by Act 40 of 2010, s. 6, for section 45 (w.e.f. 8-7-2013).

(3) The tribunal may, in a case to which sub-section (1) applies, require the applicant to give security for the costs of any proceedings relating to any opposition or appeal, and in default of such security being duly given, may treat the application as abandoned.

(4) Where in a case to which sub-section (1) applies, a trade mark in respect of any goods or services is registered in the name of an applicant who, relies on intention to assign the trade mark to a company, then, unless within such period as may be prescribed or within such further period not exceeding six months as the Registrar may, on application being made to him in the prescribed manner, allow, the company has been registered as the proprietor of the trade mark in respect of those goods or services, the registration shall cease to have effect in respect thereof at the expiration of that period and the Registrar shall amend the register accordingly.

47. Removal from register and imposition of limitations on ground of non-use.—(1) A registered trade mark may be taken off the register in respect of the goods or services in respect of which it is registered on application made in the prescribed manner to the Registrar or the Appellate Board by any person aggrieved on the ground either—

(a) that the trade mark was registered without any bona fide intention on the part of the applicant for registration that it should be used in relation to those goods or services by him or, in a case to which the provisions of section 46 apply, by the company concerned or the registered user, as the case may be, and that there has, in fact, been no bona fide use of the trade mark in relation to those goods or services by any proprietor thereof for the time being up to a date three months before the date of the application; or

(b) that up to a date three months before the date of the application, a continuous period of five years from the date on which the trade mark is actually entered in the register or longer had elapsed during which the trade mark was registered and during which there was no bona fide use thereof in relation to those goods or services by any proprietor thereof for the time being:

Provided that except where the applicant has been permitted under section 12 to register an identical or nearly resembling trade mark in respect of the goods or services in question, or where the tribunal is of opinion that he might properly be permitted so to register such a trade mark, the tribunal may refuse an application under clause (a) or clause (b) in relation to any goods or services, if it is shown that there has been, before the relevant date or during the relevant period, as the case may be, bona fide use of the trade mark by any proprietor thereof for the time being in relation to—

(i) goods or services of the same description; or

(ii) goods or services associated with those goods or services of that description being goods or services, as the case may be, in respect of which the trade mark is registered.

(2) Where in relation to any goods or services in respect of which a trade mark is registered—

(a) the circumstances referred to in clause (b) of sub-section (1) are shown to exist so far as regards non-use of the trade mark in relation to goods to be sold, or otherwise traded in a particular place in India (otherwise than for export from India), or in relation to goods to be exported to a particular market outside India; or in relation to services for use or available for acceptance in a particular place in India or for use in a particular market outside India; and

(b) a person has been permitted under section 12 to register an identical or nearly resembling trade mark in respect of those goods, under a registration extending to use in relation to goods to be so sold, or otherwise traded in, or in relation to goods to be so exported, or in relation to services for use or available for acceptance in that place or for use in that country, or the tribunal is of opinion that he might properly be permitted so to register such a trade mark, on application by that person in the prescribed manner to the Appellate Board or to the Registrar, the tribunal may impose on the registration of the first-mentioned trade mark such limitations as it thinks proper for securing that that registration shall cease to extend to such use.

(3) An applicant shall not be entitled to rely for the purpose of clause (b) of sub-section (1) or for the purposes of sub-section (2) on any non-use of a trade mark which is shown to have been due to special circumstances in the trade, which includes restrictions on the use of the trade mark in India imposed by any law or regulation and not to any intention to abandon or not to use the trade mark in relation to the goods or services to which the application relates.

48. Registered users.—(1) Subject to the provisions of section 49, a person other than the registered proprietor of a trade mark may be registered as a registered user thereof in respect of any or all of the goods or services in respect of which the trade mark is registered.

(2) The permitted use of a trade mark shall be deemed to be used by the proprietor thereof, and shall be deemed not to be used by a person other than the proprietor, for the purposes of section 47 or for any other purpose for which such use is material under this Act or any other law.

49. Registration as registered user.—(1) Where it is proposed that a person should be registered as a registered user of a trade mark, the registered proprietor and the proposed registered user shall jointly apply in writing to the Registrar in the prescribed manner, and every such application shall be accompanied by—

(a) the agreement in writing or a duly authenticated copy thereof, entered into between the registered proprietor and the proposed registered user with respect to the permitted use of the trade mark; and

(b) an affidavit made by the registered proprietor or by some person authorised to the satisfaction of the Registrar to act on his behalf,—

(i) giving particulars of the relationship, existing or proposed, between the registered proprietor and the proposed registered user, including particulars showing the degree of control by the proprietor over the permitted use which their relationship will confer and whether it is a term of their relationship that the proposed registered user shall be the sole registered user or that there shall be any other restriction as to persons for whose registration as registered users application may be made;

(ii) stating the goods or services in respect of which registration is proposed;

(iii) stating the conditions or restrictions, if any, proposed with respect to the characteristics of the goods or services, to the mode or place of permitted use, or to any other matter;

(iv) stating whether the permitted use is to be for a period or without limit of period, and, if for a period, the duration thereof; and

(c) such further documents or other evidence as may be required by the Registrar or as may be prescribed.

(2) When the requirements of sub-section (1) have been complied with, the Registrar shall register the proposed registered user in respect of the goods or services as to which he is so satisfied.

(3) The Registrar shall issue notice in the prescribed manner of the registration of a person as a registered user, to other registered users of the trade mark, if any.

(4) The Registrar shall, if so requested by the applicant, take steps for securing that information given for the purposes of an application under this section (other than matters entered in the register) is not disclosed to rivals in trade.

50. Power of Registrar for variation or cancellation of registration as registered user.—(1) Without prejudice to the provisions of section 57, the registration of a person as registered user—

(a) may be varied by the Registrar as regards the goods or services in respect of which it has effect on the application in writing in the prescribed manner of the registered proprietor of the trade mark;

(b) may be cancelled by the Registrar on the application in writing in the prescribed manner of the registered proprietor or of the registered user or of any other registered user of the trade mark;

(c) may be cancelled by the Registrar on the application in writing in the prescribed manner of any person on any of the following grounds, namely:—

(i) that the registered user has used the trade mark otherwise than in accordance with the agreement under clause (a) of sub-section (1) of section 49 or in such way as to cause or to be likely to cause, deception or confusion;

(ii) that the proprietor or the registered user misrepresented, or failed to disclose, some fact material to the application for registration which if accurately represented or disclosed would not have justified the registration of the registered user;

(iii) that the circumstances have changed since the date of registration in such a way that at the date of such application for cancellation they would not have justified registration of the registered user;

(iv) that the registration ought not to have been effected having regard to rights vested in the applicant by virtue of a contract in the performance of which he is interested;

(d) may be cancelled by the Registrar on his own motion or on the application in writing in the prescribed manner by any person, on the ground that any stipulation in the agreement between the registered proprietor and the registered user regarding the quality of the goods or services in relation to which the trade mark is to be used is either not being enforced or is not being complied with;

(e) may be cancelled by the Registrar in respect of any goods or services in relation to which the trade mark is no longer registered.

(2) The Registrar shall issue notice in the prescribed manner in respect of every application under this section to the registered proprietor and each registered user (not being the applicant) of the trade mark.

(3) The procedure for cancelling a registration shall be such as may be prescribed:

Provided that before cancelling of registration, the registered proprietor shall be given a reasonable opportunity of being heard.

51. Power of Registrar to call for information relating to agreement in respect of registered users.—(1) The Registrar may, at any time during the continuance of the registration of the registered user, by notice in writing, require the registered proprietor to confirm to him within one month that the agreement filed under clause (a) of sub-section (1) of section 49 continues to be in force.

(2) If the registered proprietor fails to furnish the confirmation within one month as required under sub-section (1), the registered user shall cease to be the registered user on the day immediately after the expiry of the said period and the Registrar shall notify the same.

52. Right of registered user to take proceedings against infringement.—(1) Subject to any agreement subsisting between the parties, a registered user may institute proceedings for infringement in his own name as if he were the registered proprietor, making the registered proprietor a defendant and the rights and obligations of such registered user in such case being concurrent with those of the registered proprietor.

(2) Notwithstanding anything contained in any other law, a registered proprietor so added as defendant shall not be liable for any costs unless he enters an appearance and takes part in the proceedings.

53. No right of permitted user to take proceeding against infringement.—A person referred to in sub-clause (ii) of clause (r) of sub-section (1) of section 2 shall have no right to institute any proceeding for any infringement.

54. Registered user not to have right of assignment or transmission.—Nothing in this Act shall confer on a registered user of a trade mark any assignable or transmissible right to the use thereof.

Explanation 1.—The right of a registered user of a trade mark shall not be deemed to have been assigned or transmitted within the meaning of this section in the following cases, namely:—

(a) where the registered user being an individual enters into a partnership with any other person for carrying on the business concerned; but in any such case the firm may use the trade mark, if otherwise in force, only for so long as the registered user is a member of the firm;

(b) where the registered user being a firm subsequently undergoes a change in its constitution; but in any such case the reconstituted firm may use the trade mark, if otherwise in force, only for so long as any partner of the original firm at the time of its registration as registered user, continues to be a partner of the reconstituted firm.

Explanation II.—For the purposes of Explanation I, —firm has the same meaning as in the Indian Partnership Act, 1932 (9 of 1932).

55. Use of one of associated or substantially identical trade marks equivalent to use of another.—(1) Where under the provisions of this Act, use of a registered trade mark is required to be proved for any purpose, the tribunal may, if and, so far as it shall think right, accept use of a registered associated trade mark, or of the trade mark with additions or alterations not substantially affecting its identity, as an equivalent for the use required to be proved.

(2) The use of the whole of a registered trade mark shall, for the purpose of this Act, be deemed to be also use of any trade mark being a part thereof and registered in accordance with sub-section (1) of section 15 in the name of the same proprietor.

(3) Notwithstanding anything in section 32, the use of part of the registered trade mark in sub-section (2) shall not be conclusive as to its evidence of distinctiveness for any purpose under this Act.

56. Use of trade mark for export trade and use when form of trade connection changes.—(1) The application in India of trade mark to goods to be exported from India or in relation to services for use outside India and any other act done in India in relation to goods to be so exported or services so rendered outside India which, if done in relation to goods to be sold or services provided or otherwise traded in within India would constitute use of a trade mark therein, shall be deemed to constitute use of the trade mark in relation to those goods or services for any purpose for which such use is material under this Act or any other law.

(2) The use of a registered trade mark in relation to goods or services between which and the person using the mark any form of connection in the course of trade subsists shall not be deemed to be likely to cause deception or confusion on the ground only that the mark has been or is used in relation to goods or services between which and the said person or a predecessor in title of that person a different form of connection in the course of trade subsisted or subsists.

CHAPTER VII

(3) The tribunal may in any proceeding under this section decide any question that may be necessary or expedient to decide in connection with the rectification of the register.

(4) The tribunal, of its own motion, may, after giving notice in the prescribed manner to the parties concerned and after giving them an opportunity of being heard, make any order referred to in sub-section (1) or sub-section (2).

(5) Any order of the Appellate Board rectifying the register shall direct that notice of the rectification shall be served upon the Registrar in the prescribed manner who shall upon receipt of such notice rectify the register accordingly.

(2) The Registrar may cause an application under this section to be advertised in the prescribed manner in any case where it appears to him that it is expedient so to do, and where he does so, if within the prescribed time from the date of the advertisement any person gives notice to the Registrar in the prescribed manner of opposition to the application, the Registrar shall, after hearing the parties if so required, decide the matter.

(3) Where leave is granted under this section, the trade mark as altered shall be advertised in the prescribed manner, unless the application has already been advertised under sub-section (2).

60. Adaptation of entries in register to amended or substituted classification of goods or services.—(1) The Registrar shall not make any amendment of the register which would have the effect of adding any goods or classes of goods or services to those in respect of which a trade mark is registered (whether in one or more classes) immediately before the amendment is to be made or of antedating the registration of a trade mark in respect of any goods or services:

Provided that this sub-section, shall not apply when the Registrar is satisfied that compliance therewith would involve undue complexity and that the addition or antedating, as the case may be, would not affect any substantial quantity of goods or services and would not substantially prejudice the rights of any person.

Definitions Under the Trade Marks Act, 1999 Bare Act PDF Download

A core strength of the Indian Trade Marks Law 1999 Bare Act PDF lies in its detailed definitions, which create clarity for both proprietors and enforcement authorities. By establishing precise meanings for terms such as trademark, collective mark, certification mark, and well-known trademark, the Act reduces ambiguity in interpretation. These definitions ensure that brand owners, compliance officers, and courts operate with a consistent understanding of rights and obligations. The Trade Marks Act 1999 Bare Act with Executive Summary Corrida Legal emphasises that without these foundational definitions, registration and enforcement mechanisms would become uncertain and vulnerable to misuse.

Definition of Trade Mark – Trade Marks Act 1999 Executive Summary Corrida Legal

Under Section 2(zb), a trade mark is defined as a mark capable of being represented graphically and distinguishing the goods or services of one person from those of another. It may include words, names, numerals, shapes of goods, packaging, or even a combination of colours. This definition reflects the evolving nature of branding in modern commerce, where non-traditional marks such as shapes or colour schemes also serve as identifiers. The Trade Marks Act 1999 Executive Summary Corrida Legal highlights that this wide scope enables proprietors to secure protection over unique features that build consumer trust.

Collective and Certification Marks – Indian Trade Marks Law 1999 Bare Act PDF

The By formally recognising these categories, the Indian Trade Marks Law 1999 Bare Act PDF supports consumer protection and ensures accountability in sectors where quality assurance is crucial.

Well-Known Trade Marks – Trade Marks Act 1999 Key Provisions and Summary PDF

The concept of a well-known trademark under Section 2(zg) is another important feature. A mark is considered well-known when it enjoys recognition among a substantial segment of the public, such that use of the mark on unrelated goods or services would still imply a connection with the original proprietor. The Trade Marks Act 1999 Key Provisions and Summary PDF shows how this protects brands like Coca-Cola, Google, or Tata from dilution. Even if a third party uses these names in unrelated sectors, the law presumes unfair advantage or consumer deception. This provision is particularly valuable in safeguarding international and domestic brands that invest heavily in reputation.

Deceptively Similar Marks – Trade Marks Act 1999 Full Text PDF Free

Section 2(h) defines “deceptively similar” as a mark that so closely resembles another that it is likely to confuse or mislead the public. This includes visual, phonetic, or conceptual similarity. Courts in India have repeatedly held that deceptive similarity does not require exact duplication; even slight variations can constitute infringement if they cause consumer confusion. The Trade Marks Act 1999 Full Text PDF Free makes it clear that this test is essential for protecting both consumers and brand owners, as imitation often thrives in close resemblance rather than outright copying.

Registered User and Permitted Use – Trade Marks Act 1999 Bare Act with Executive Summary Corrida Legal

The Act distinguishes between a registered user (formally recorded under Section 49) and a permitted user (using the mark with the proprietor's consent but without formal registration). This distinction is critical for licensing arrangements, as only registered users have standing to enforce rights in certain cases. The Trade Marks Act 1999 Bare Act with Executive Summary Corrida Legal stresses that while permitted use offers flexibility, registration as a user ensures stronger legal protection. Businesses often rely on this provision to structure franchise and distribution agreements lawfully.

5. Advertisement of the accepted application in the Trade Marks Journal.
6. Invitation for opposition from third parties within four months.
7. Decision on opposition, if filed, or confirmation of acceptance.
8. Grant of registration and issuance of a certificate.

This process ensures fairness by giving both the applicant and potential objectors an opportunity to present their claims.

- The Registrar issues notices reminding proprietors of the upcoming expiry.
- If the renewal is not completed, the mark may be removed from the register.
- Restoration is possible within a year of removal by paying prescribed fees and surcharges.

This structure ensures that proprietors who wish to maintain their marks in force can do so continuously, while unused or neglected marks are cleared from the register.

Opposition and Advertisement – Trade Marks Act 1999 Key Provisions and Summary PDF

The system allows any person to oppose a proposed trademark after it has been advertised in the Journal. The Trade Marks Act 1999 Key Provisions and Summary PDF explains that opposition is a safeguard to prevent conflicting or misleading marks from being registered.

- The opponent files a notice of opposition within four months.
- The applicant must submit a counterstatement within two months.

- The Registrar conducts hearings and issues a decision.

This mechanism ensures that prior rights are respected and that new registrations do not unfairly affect existing brand owners.

Jointly Owned Trade Marks and Assignments – Trade Marks Act 1999 Bare Act with Executive Summary Corrida Legal

Absolute and Relative Grounds for Refusal – Trade Marks Act 1999 Bare Act PDF Download

The Indian Trade Marks Law 1999 Bare Act PDF sets out specific situations where a trademark cannot be registered. These provisions are crucial to ensure that the register contains only marks that are distinctive, non-deceptive, and consistent with public policy. The rules strike a balance between the rights of applicants and the protection of consumers. The Trade Marks Act 1999 Bare Act with Executive Summary Corrida Legal highlights two categories of restrictions: absolute grounds and relative grounds.

Absolute Grounds for Refusal – Trade Marks Act 1999 Executive Summary Corrida Legal

Absolute grounds, provided under Section 9, relate to the inherent qualities of a mark. A trademark will not be registered if it:

1. Lacks distinctiveness or cannot distinguish one trader's goods or services from another's.
2. Is descriptive of the kind, quality, purpose, or geographical origin of goods or services.
3. Has become customary in the current language or trade practices.
4. Is likely to deceive the public or cause confusion.

5. Contains scandalous, obscene, or offensive matter.
6. Hurts religious sentiments of any community in India.
7. Is prohibited under the Emblems and Names (Prevention of Improper Use) Act, 1950.

The Trade Marks Act 1999 Executive Summary Corrida Legal explains that these rules prevent misuse of words, symbols, or images that are generic, misleading, or socially unacceptable.

Relative Grounds for Refusal – Indian Trade Marks Law 1999 Bare Act PDF

Relative grounds, under Section 11, focus on conflicts with existing rights. A trademark will be refused if:

- It is identical or deceptively similar to an earlier registered mark for the same or similar goods or services.
- It is similar to a well-known trademark, even for unrelated goods or services, where unfair advantage or dilution may occur.
- Its use would constitute passing off under common law.
- Its registration would violate copyright law.

These rules safeguard the interests of existing proprietors and prevent confusion in the marketplace. According to the Indian Trade Marks Law 1999 Bare Act PDF, they ensure that consumers are not misled into believing that goods or services originate from a different source.

Well-Known Trade Marks and Special Protection – Trade Marks Act 1999 Key Provisions and Summary PDF

One of the most important aspects of the Act is its protection for well-known marks. Even if such a mark is not registered in India for certain goods or services, it cannot be used by others without authorisation. The Trade Marks Act 1999 Key Provisions and Summary PDF stresses that this prevents unfair advantage being taken of the reputation of established brands.

When deciding whether a mark is well-known, the Registrar considers:

- The degree of recognition among the relevant public.
- The duration and extent of its use and promotion.
- Past enforcement history.
- International registrations and recognitions.

This ensures that globally recognised marks receive equivalent respect within India's legal framework.

International Perspective – Trade Marks Act 1999 Full Text PDF Free

The Trade Marks Act 1999 Full Text PDF Free also integrates global principles by aligning with international trademark norms. By refusing marks that conflict with well-known or earlier international registrations, India complies with its obligations under treaties like TRIPS and the Madrid Protocol. This approach makes Indian law consistent with global best practices and enhances the credibility of the trademark system.

Transparency in Refusal and Appeals – Trade Marks Act 1999 Bare Act with Executive Summary Corrida Legal

The Registrar must record reasons in writing when refusing or conditionally accepting a mark. The applicant has a right to respond, and in many cases, to appeal the decision. The Trade Marks Act 1999 Bare Act with Executive Summary Corrida Legal ensures that applicants are treated fairly, while maintaining a robust mechanism to protect the register from undesirable entries.

Rights Conferred by Registration – Trade Marks Act 1999 Bare Act PDF Download

The Indian Trade Marks Law 1999 Bare Act PDF makes it clear that the registration of a trademark is not a mere formality but the legal foundation for exclusive rights. Registration provides statutory protection that common law rights under passing off cannot fully guarantee. Once a mark is registered, the proprietor acquires enforceable rights that extend throughout India. The Trade Marks Act 1999 Bare Act with Executive Summary Corrida Legal emphasises that these rights are subject to the conditions and limitations recorded in the register, but they create a powerful shield against misuse.

Exclusive Rights of the Proprietor – Trade Marks Act 1999 Executive Summary Corrida Legal

Section 28 of the Act grants the proprietor exclusive rights over the use of the registered trademark in relation to the goods or services for which it is registered. This means that:

1. No other person may legally use the same or a deceptively similar mark without authorisation.
2. The proprietor can control licensing and decide who may be a registered user.
3. The proprietor is entitled to relief in case of infringement.

The Trade Marks Act 1999 Executive Summary Corrida Legal underlines that these rights extend only to the goods and services specified in the registration, ensuring balance between protection and competition.

Unlike unregistered marks, which rely only on passing off actions, registered trademarks provide a statutory right to sue for infringement. The Indian Trade Marks Law 1999 Bare Act PDF specifies that infringement occurs when a third party uses an identical or confusingly similar mark for identical or related goods or services, thereby causing consumer confusion.

This statutory cause of action is stronger than passing off because:

- It requires no proof of goodwill or reputation.
- The certificate of registration itself serves as prima facie evidence of validity.
- Remedies available are broader and more effective.

Joint Ownership and Co-Existence – Trade Marks Act 1999 Key Provisions and Summary PDF

The Act allows for situations where more than one proprietor may hold rights in a trademark. The Trade Marks Act 1999 Key Provisions and Summary PDF clarifies that in cases of honest concurrent use or special circumstances, two or more parties may be registered as proprietors. Each co-owner enjoys rights against outsiders, though their rights vis-à-vis one another are regulated by the Registrar's directions. This provision ensures flexibility where brands have developed similar marks independently but without dishonest intention.

Prima Facie Validity of Registration – Trade Marks Act 1999 Full Text PDF Free

Section 31 provides that registration of a mark is prima facie evidence of its validity. This means that in legal proceedings, the registered proprietor does not need to prove distinctiveness all over again. The Trade Marks Act 1999 Full Text PDF Free highlights that this presumption saves time and expense in litigation, while allowing challenges only on specific grounds such as fraud, non-use, or contravention of absolute or relative grounds.

Limits on Exclusive Rights – Trade Marks Act 1999 Bare Act with Executive Summary Corrida Legal

Although registration grants exclusive rights, these are not absolute. Section 30 limits the scope of protection by allowing certain uses that do not constitute infringement, such as:

- Honest descriptive use of words relating to kind, quality, or geographical origin.
- Comparative advertising that is fair and not misleading.
- Use of one associated mark as equivalent to another.

The Trade Marks Act 1999 Bare Act with Executive Summary Corrida Legal explains that these limits prevent proprietors from using their rights to block genuine competition or descriptive use in trade.

Infringement of Trade Marks – Trade Marks Act 1999 Bare Act PDF Download

The Indian Trade Marks Law 1999 Bare Act PDF devotes significant attention to infringement, recognising that mere registration is insufficient without effective remedies against unauthorised use. Infringement provisions create a statutory shield for proprietors and deter competitors from taking unfair advantage of established goodwill. The Trade Marks Act 1999 Bare Act with Executive Summary Corrida Legal notes that infringement is a strict liability offence — intention is not always necessary, as even unintentional use of a deceptively similar mark can attract liability.

Acts Constituting Infringement – Trade Marks Act 1999 Executive Summary Corrida Legal

Section 29 defines infringement broadly. A trademark is infringed when:

1. An identical mark is used for identical goods or services.
2. A similar mark is used for identical or similar goods or services, causing a likelihood of confusion.
3. A registered mark is used in relation to dissimilar goods or services, where the registered mark enjoys a reputation and the use is detrimental or unfairly advantageous.
4. A mark is applied to material intended for labelling or packaging without authorisation.
5. The registered mark is used as a trade name or part of a business identity without consent.

The Trade Marks Act 1999 Executive Summary Corrida Legal highlights that these provisions cover both direct imitation and indirect exploitation of reputation.

Tests Applied by Courts – Indian Trade Marks Law 1999 Bare Act PDF

Indian courts apply practical tests to decide whether infringement has occurred. According to the Indian Trade Marks Law 1999 Bare Act PDF, the focus is on consumer perception rather than microscopic comparison. The principal tests include:

- Phonetic similarity: similarity in sound, even if spelling differs.
- Visual similarity: resemblance in logos, colours, or packaging.
- Conceptual similarity: similarity in meaning or impression created.

These tests reflect the principle that the average consumer should not be misled, even if the differences appear clear to experts or lawyers.

Exceptions and Permissible Use – Trade Marks Act 1999 Key Provisions and Summary PDF

Section 30 sets out exceptions to infringement. A person is not liable if:

- The use is honest and descriptive of the goods or services.
- The mark is used in comparative advertising that is fair and not misleading.
- The proprietor's rights are exhausted after goods are lawfully sold in the market.

Dilution of Well-Known Marks – Trade Marks Act 1999 Full Text PDF Free

Infringement is not limited to identical goods or services. Where a mark has attained the status of a well-known trademark, unauthorised use on unrelated goods or services may still amount to infringement. The Trade Marks Act 1999 Full Text PDF Free confirms that such dilution occurs when the reputation of a famous brand is exploited to promote other products, thereby weakening its uniqueness. This principle protects the integrity of globally recognised marks within the Indian market.

Legal Consequences and Remedies – Trade Marks Act 1999 Bare Act with Executive Summary Corrida Legal

Once infringement is established, the Act provides both civil and criminal remedies. The Trade Marks Act 1999 Bare Act with Executive Summary Corrida Legal outlines the principal consequences:

- Injunctions to restrain further use.
- Damages or account of profits as compensation.
- Seizure and destruction of infringing goods.
- Imprisonment and fines for falsifying or falsely applying trademarks.

These remedies demonstrate that trademark infringement is treated as both a private wrong against the proprietor and a public wrong against consumer interests.

Assignment and Transmission of Trade Marks – Trade Marks Act 1999 Bare Act PDF Download

The Indian Trade Marks Law 1999 Bare Act PDF recognises that trademarks are not just legal identifiers but valuable commercial property. Like other assets, they can be transferred from one proprietor to another through assignment or transmission. These provisions enhance the commercial utility of trademarks by allowing their use in mergers, acquisitions, franchising, and business restructuring. The Trade Marks Act 1999 Bare Act with Executive Summary Corrida Legal explains that this transferability makes trademarks an important component of intellectual property portfolios, adding tangible value to a company's brand equity.

Assignment of Trademarks – Trade Marks Act 1999 Executive Summary Corrida Legal

1. With goodwill – where the rights are transferred along with the reputation and customer base associated with the mark.
2. Without goodwill – where the rights are transferred only for certain goods, services, or geographical territories.

Assignments must be recorded with the Trade Marks Registry to be effective. The Registrar may refuse assignments that create confusion, such as splitting rights across similar goods without proper safeguards.

Transmission of Rights – Indian Trade Marks Law 1999 Bare Act PDF

Transmission arises when trademark ownership passes by operation of law, rather than a deliberate act of assignment. The Indian Trade Marks Law 1999 Bare Act PDF clarifies that transmission can occur in cases such as:

- Inheritance of rights by legal heirs upon the death of a proprietor.
- Dissolution of a partnership firm and distribution of assets.
- Corporate restructuring such as amalgamation or demerger.

These provisions ensure continuity of ownership so that valuable rights do not lapse merely because of changes in the structure of the business.

Restrictions and Conditions – Trade Marks Act 1999 Key Provisions and Summary PDF

To prevent consumer confusion, the law imposes restrictions on certain assignments and transmissions. The Trade Marks Act 1999 Key Provisions and Summary PDF highlights that:

- Assignments cannot result in the creation of exclusive rights in more than one person for identical or similar marks in relation to similar goods or services.
- The Registrar has power to regulate assignments that may cause confusion in the marketplace.
- Conditions can be imposed to ensure fair use and prevent abuse of the trademark system.

This balance ensures that while commercial transactions are facilitated, consumer interests are not compromised.

Procedure and Documentation – Trade Marks Act 1999 Full Text PDF Free

The Trade Marks Act 1999 Full Text PDF Free prescribes a structured process for recording assignments and transmissions:

- Submission of a request to the Registrar along with the prescribed fee.
- Filing of the original deed of assignment or supporting documents in case of transmission.
- Verification of compliance with restrictions under Sections 40 and 41.
- Entry of the new proprietor's name in the register.

Recording these changes is vital to establish legal ownership and maintain clarity in the register.

Commercial Value of Assignments – Trade Marks Act 1999 Bare Act with Executive Summary Corrida Legal

Assignments and transmissions add significant commercial value to trademarks. The Trade Marks Act 1999 Bare Act with Executive Summary Corrida Legal notes that by enabling transferability, the law allows proprietors to:

- Monetise intellectual property through sale or licensing.
- Facilitate brand expansion into new markets.
- Use trademarks as security for financial transactions.
- Strengthen corporate mergers and acquisitions.

Thus, assignment provisions not only protect legal rights but also support business growth and innovation.

Special Categories of Trade Marks – Trade Marks Act 1999 Bare Act PDF Download

The Indian Trade Marks Law 1999 Bare Act PDF goes beyond ordinary trademarks to include certain specialised categories designed to protect collective interests and maintain standards of quality. These categories are collective marks and certification marks. By recognising these marks, the law acknowledges that trademarks serve not only individual business interests but also broader economic and consumer protection goals. The Trade Marks Act 1999 Bare Act with Executive Summary Corrida Legal clarifies that these marks strengthen trust in industries where quality, origin, or association plays a central role in consumer decision-making.

Collective Marks – Trade Marks Act 1999 Executive Summary Corrida Legal

A collective mark is used by members of an association to distinguish their goods or services from those of non-members. The Trade Marks Act 1999 Executive Summary Corrida Legal explains that collective marks:

1. Represent membership in a trade association, society, or organisation.
2. Help smaller businesses benefit from shared reputation and consumer trust.
3. Require regulations that govern how the mark will be used by members.
4. Provide protection against misuse by outsiders or non-members.

For example, marks used by cooperatives or professional associations often fall into this category. They signal to consumers that the goods or services meet certain common standards set by the group.

Certification Marks – Indian Trade Marks Law 1999 Bare Act PDF

Certification marks serve as a guarantee of specific characteristics such as quality, method of manufacture, origin, or safety standards. According to the Indian Trade Marks Law 1999 Bare Act PDF, these marks differ from ordinary trademarks because they do not indicate trade origin but rather assure compliance with defined standards.

Examples include:

- ISI mark for industrial standards.
- AGMARK for agricultural products.
- Woolmark for textiles.

The owner of a certification mark is usually a government body or an independent authority that tests and certifies compliance. Consumers rely on such marks to make informed choices, and businesses benefit from the credibility that certification brings.

Regulation and Enforcement – Trade Marks Act 1999 Key Provisions and Summary PDF

The use of collective and certification marks is subject to strict regulation. The Trade Marks Act 1999 Key Provisions and Summary PDF highlights that:

- Applications for registration must include detailed regulations governing use.
- The Registrar has authority to review and approve these regulations.
- Infringement occurs not only when outsiders misuse the mark but also when members or licensees use it in violation of the rules.
- Remedies include injunctions, damages, and cancellation of the mark if regulations are not followed.

This ensures that the integrity of these marks is preserved and that they continue to serve their intended role in consumer protection.

Economic and Legal Importance – Trade Marks Act 1999 Full Text PDF Free

The Trade Marks Act 1999 Full Text PDF Free underlines the economic importance of collective and certification marks. By assuring uniformity and quality, they:

- Promote consumer confidence in entire sectors.
- Enhance competitiveness by rewarding adherence to standards.
- Provide smaller businesses with a platform to compete on equal terms.
- Encourage innovation by rewarding those who meet or exceed regulatory requirements.

These benefits demonstrate why special categories deserve equal recognition alongside ordinary trademarks.

Practical Relevance – Trade Marks Act 1999 Bare Act with Executive Summary Corrida Legal

For practitioners, the Trade Marks Act 1999 Bare Act with Executive Summary Corrida Legal makes it clear that collective and certification marks play a crucial role in compliance and business strategy. Businesses must carefully draft usage regulations, ensure ongoing monitoring, and educate members or licensees on proper use. Failure to comply with these obligations can result in cancellation of the mark and loss of reputation.

International Protection under Madrid Protocol – Trade Marks Act 1999 Bare Act PDF Download

The Indian Trade Marks Law 1999 Bare Act PDF brought India into alignment with international practices by incorporating provisions for the Madrid Protocol. This system allows trademark proprietors to seek protection in multiple countries through a single application. For businesses expanding globally, the Madrid Protocol is one of the most cost-effective and efficient tools available. The Trade Marks Act 1999 Bare Act with Executive Summary Corrida Legal highlights that these provisions extend the scope of Indian trademarks far beyond national boundaries, thereby strengthening the global recognition of Indian brands.

Meaning and Scope – Trade Marks Act 1999 Executive Summary Corrida Legal

The Madrid Protocol is an international treaty administered by the World Intellectual Property Organization (WIPO). The Trade Marks Act 1999 Executive Summary Corrida Legal explains that under this framework:

1. A single application may be filed through the Indian Trade Marks Registry designating other member countries.
2. Proprietors can manage their international portfolio centrally, including renewals and changes in ownership.
3. Costs are significantly reduced compared to filing separate applications in each jurisdiction.
4. Protection is uniform, ensuring that marks are safeguarded in multiple markets.

This system simplifies the process for Indian enterprises looking to expand their brands globally while also allowing foreign companies to secure rights in India.

Procedure for International Registration – Indian Trade Marks Law 1999 Bare Act PDF

The Indian Trade Marks Law 1999 Bare Act PDF outlines a clear process for international applications:

- The proprietor must first file or register a mark in India (basic application or registration).
- An international application is then submitted through the Indian Registry to WIPO.
- WIPO conducts a formal examination and notifies designated countries.
- Each country applies its national laws to decide on acceptance or refusal.

This two-stage system ensures that Indian authorities and WIPO jointly regulate the process, providing both domestic and international scrutiny.

Advantages of the System – Trade Marks Act 1999 Key Provisions and Summary PDF

The Trade Marks Act 1999 Key Provisions and Summary PDF identifies several advantages of the Madrid Protocol:

- Efficiency: one application, one set of fees, and one renewal date.
- Flexibility: additional countries may be designated later as businesses expand.
- Cost-saving: eliminates the need for multiple filings across jurisdictions.
- Brand strategy: provides stronger global visibility and investor confidence.

For Indian startups and multinational corporations alike, this system reduces administrative burdens while ensuring broader protection.

Duration and Renewal – Trade Marks Act 1999 Full Text PDF Free

International registrations under the Madrid Protocol are valid for ten years and may be renewed indefinitely. The Trade Marks Act 1999 Full Text PDF Free clarifies that renewal requires payment of fees to WIPO, and the effect of renewal extends to all designated countries. If a mark is not renewed in India within the same term, international protection automatically lapses, emphasising the importance of timely compliance.

Practical Relevance for Indian Businesses – Trade Marks Act 1999 Bare Act with Executive Summary Corrida Legal

The Trade Marks Act 1999 Bare Act with Executive Summary Corrida Legal stresses the relevance of Madrid Protocol provisions for Indian enterprises. In today's global economy, businesses are no longer confined to domestic markets. Whether in technology, pharmaceuticals, fashion, or food products, Indian brands increasingly compete internationally. By using the Madrid system, companies can:

- Expand protection quickly across multiple countries.
- Avoid the complexities of navigating diverse foreign trademark regimes.
- Protect themselves against counterfeiting and parallel imports in export markets.

This makes the Madrid Protocol a strategic tool for ensuring that Indian intellectual property remains competitive and secure on the world stage.

Rectification and Correction of the Register – Trade Marks Act 1999 Bare Act PDF Download

The Indian Trade Marks Law 1999 Bare Act PDF recognises that the trademark register must remain accurate and up to date. Errors, omissions, or misuse can undermine the reliability of the register, leading to disputes and market confusion. To address this, the Act provides a mechanism for rectification and correction. The Trade Marks Act 1999 Bare Act with Executive Summary Corrida Legal explains that rectification is not merely an administrative act; it is a vital process that balances the rights of proprietors with the public interest in a clean and credible trademark register.

Grounds for Rectification – Trade Marks Act 1999 Executive Summary Corrida Legal

3. Non-use of the mark for a continuous period of five years from registration.
4. Failure to observe conditions or limitations imposed at the time of registration.
5. Use of the mark in a manner that misleads the public.

These grounds ensure that only valid and actively used marks remain on the register.

Applications for rectification are not restricted to proprietors. The Indian Trade Marks Law 1999 Bare Act PDF allows:

- Aggrieved parties, such as competing businesses, to challenge wrongful entries.

- Courts, while deciding infringement suits, to refer questions of rectification to the Appellate Board.

This wide scope ensures that the register remains an authentic record reflecting genuine rights.

Correction of Clerical Errors – Trade Marks Act 1999 Key Provisions and Summary PDF

Apart from rectification, the Act also provides for correction of minor clerical errors. The Trade Marks Act 1999 Key Provisions and Summary PDF highlights that:

- Proprietors can request correction of names, addresses, or typographical mistakes.
- Errors in classification of goods or services may be corrected.
- These corrections do not affect the substantive rights of parties.
